UCSB Arts & Lectures DIY Silent Film Contest Winner
"What a Pool Believes" Premieres Locally

"What a Pool Believes" has just been announced as the winner of the UCSB Arts & Lectures DIY Silent Film Contest and is set to premiere this week in Santa Barbara. Featuring all local cast and crew, this truly "Santa Barbarian" silent comedy film contains satire, romance, and fantasy all in one three-minute package!

Director Ted Mills and Producer Meighann A. Helene worked seamlessly together to pull together a stellar local presence, filming at a historic Santa Barbara residence; gathering local silent film musician Adam Aceto to develop the original score; and even including Harold Lloyds' 1924 Rolls-Royce to give the film its over-all authenticity.

The film will screen before the final film of UCSB Arts & Lectures' Summer Silent Film Series, "Modern Times."
